End of season Party Posted by BritRacer - 16 Nov 2013 20:01
Hey guys,
I know it did not come together last year, with conflicting schedules etc but I was wondering whether people are interested in doing something this off season?
Let's have your thoughts.

I'm game but schedule is pretty packed until January

l'm in
Early Dec will be a bit of a problem but otherwise Dec/Jan works for me. Next year is going to be hectic and my racing schedule will probably be impacted somewhat.

I have family in town all of December, so that is out for me too.

So it looks like January is best. Any ideas of people would like to do?

1) LeMans Karting (fremont) or another location

2) Paintball (not sure where)

Early January is good for me. Paintball is fun but I vote for karting. It's easier to set up and more famy friendly, plus Kim wants to avenge her loss after coming in one lap early while in the lead!

Karting's always good. Currently got something the weekend of Jan 17, but otherwise open. Good if we can slot away a plan now so I can valiantly attempt to get the better half to join...
